Salaam brings the complex history and dance tradition of South Africa to the BAM Howard Gilman Opera House stage. An exceptional array of theatrical experiences this season includes the return of the RSC with Sir Antony Sher’s unmissable take on King Lear; Russia’s Maly Drama Theatre with a revelatory Schiller production; and Sir Richard Eyre directing Long Day’s Journey into Night with Lesley Manville and Jeremy Irons. With music from masters like Meredith Monk and Abdullah Ibrahim it is truly a season rich with resonant offerings that we look forward to sharing with our always adventurous audiences.”
BAM President Katy Clark said, “This exceptional programming wouldn’t be possible without the ongoing support of our season sponsor, Bloomberg Philanthropies. I would like to thank all of our generous sponsors and donors who continue to support BAM—from our work on the stage to our work in the classroom. We value your consistent dedication.”

The iconoclastic New York artist Meredith Monk returns to BAM this season with her newest music-theater work, Cellular Songs. Pairing voice with movement, instrumentation, and a site specific video installation, Cellular Songs is a continuation of Monk’s works that explore human beings’ interdependent relationship with nature while seeking to evoke the ineffable. The work, at once playful and contemplative, draws inspiration from such cellular activity as layering, replication, division, and mutation, and looks to underlying systems in nature that can serve as a prototype for human behavior in our tumultuous world. Conjuring cycles of birth and death throughout, Monk once again reminds us of her vitality as an artist who cuts to the core of experience. Cellular Songs will be Monk’s 11th production at BAM, which began with the 1976 presentation of Quarry. She most recently presented On Behalf of Nature (2014 Next Wave).

Meredith Monk is a composer, singer, director/choreographer and creator of new opera, music-theater works, films, and installations. Recognized as one of the most unique and influential artists of our time, she is a pioneer in what is now called “extended vocal technique” and “interdisciplinary performance”. Monk creates works that thrive at the intersection of music and movement, image and object, light and sound in an effort to discover and weave together new modes of perception. Her groundbreaking exploration of the voice as an instrument, as an eloquent language in and of itself, expands the boundaries of musical composition, creating landscapes of sound that unearth feelings, energies, and memories for which there are no words. "Monk's many-sided art [is] rooted in her voice—a ruggedly beautiful, piercingly expressive, ever-changeable instrument." says The New Yorker. Celebrated internationally, her work has been presented at major venues throughout the world. In conjunction with her 50th Season of creating and performing, she was appointed the 2014-15 Richard and Barbara Debs Composer's Chair at Carnegie Hall. Among her many accolades, Monk recently received two of the highest honors bestowed to a living artist in the United States—the 2017 Dorothy and Lillian Gish Prize and a 2015 National Medal of Arts from President Barack Obama.

The matriarchal narrative of Gulaim—a teenage warrior who defended her clan from Eastern invaders with the help of qyrq qyz (forty girls), Amazons of Turkic legend—has endured for centuries in the male-dominated epic oral tradition of Central Asia. With Qyrq Qyz, a BAM debut for both the Aga Khan Music Initiative and acclaimed Uzbek filmmaker Saodat Ismailova (40 Days of Silence), the tale receives a multimedia retelling that harnesses both cutting-edge and traditional art forms. As a new generation of Turkic female bards sing Gulaim’s legend—accompanying themselves on dutar (two-stringed lute), kyl-kiyak (two-stringed bowl fiddle), and jaw harp—Ismailova’s mesmerizing multiscreen video, scored by acclaimed Tashkent-based composer Dmitri Yanov-Yanovsky, adds a powerful new dimension to an eternally engrossing ancient story.

The Aga Khan Music Initiative is an interregional music and arts education program with worldwide performance, outreach, mentoring, and artistic production activities. The Initiative was launched by His Highness the Aga Khan to support talented musicians and music educators working to preserve, transmit, and further develop their musical heritage in contemporary forms. The Music Initiative began its work in Central Asia, with projects in Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, and Afghanistan, and subsequently expanded its cultural development activities to include artistic communities and audiences in the Middle East and North Africa, South Asia, and West Africa.

"Antony Sher is unbearably moving as the volatile king, in Gregory Doran’s stellar production, full of standout performances…” The Guardian, UK

The incomparable Sir Antony Sher and the legendary Royal Shakespeare Company return to BAM with their acclaimed new production of King Lear, presented at BAM in its US premiere. In this magnum opus within Shakespeare’s canon of kings, Sher tackles the colossal role of Lear with his signature ferocity and power, personifying one of drama’s most tragic falls from grace. RSC Artistic Director Gregory Doran stages the production amid stark, modern sets, allowing Shakespeare’s language and Jacobean brutality to take center stage.

After ruling for many years and reaching the age of 80, the widowed King Lear announces his intention to divide his kingdom and the monarchy evenly among his three daughters. However, with hubris he misjudges their loyalty, soon finding himself stripped of all the trappings of state and power that had defined him—and descending into madness.

The Royal Shakespeare Company creates theater at its best, made in Stratford-upon-Avon and shared around the world. Everyone at the RSC—from actors to armorers, musicians to technicians—plays a part in creating the world seen on stage. All productions begin at their Stratford workshops and theaters, and they bring them to the widest possible audience through touring, residencies, live broadcasts and online activity. Wherever the audiences experience the RSC, they experience work made in Shakespeare’s home town. They encourage everyone to enjoy a lifelong relationship with Shakespeare and live theater. Each year the RSC produces an inspirational artistic program, setting Shakespeare in context, alongside the work of his contemporaries and today’s writers. They have trained generations of the very best theater makers and continue to nurture the talent of the future. The RSC reaches many thousands of children and young people annually through their educational work, transforming their experiences in the classroom, in performance, and online. They have always had a special relationship with America, welcoming more than 20,000 US visitors to Stratford each year and bringing productions and education programs there regularly.

Over the past three decades Gregory Doran has directed more than half the canon of Shakespeare’s plays for the RSC and was officially appointed as the RSC’s Artistic Director in 2012. He is an Honorary Fellow of the Shakespeare Birthplace Trust, an Honorary Senior Research Fellow of the Shakespeare Institute and holds honorary doctorates from Universities of Huddersfield, Nottingham, Bristol, Birmingham and Warwick. In 2012 he won the Sam Wanamaker Award, and from 2012—13 was the Humanitas Visiting Professor in Drama at Oxford University. In 2003 he earned an Olivier Award for Outstanding Achievement of the Year for his RSC Jacobean Season.

The Jazz Epistles
Featuring Abdullah Ibrahim & Ekaya
With special guests

BAM Howard Gilman Opera House (30 Lafayette Ave)
Apr 19 at 8pm
Tickets: $35, 40, 60
(Prices subject to change after Jan 8)

The Jazz Epistles were South Africa’s first black jazz band, pioneering a new musical form influenced by bebop and traditional South African music. Inspired by Art Blakey’s Jazz Messengers, the band formed after the Dollar Brand Trio from Capetown—which included pianist Abdullah Ibrahim, bassist Johnny Gertze, and drummer Makaya Ntshoko—combined talents with alto saxophonist Kippie Moeketsi, trumpeter Hugh Masekela, and trombonist Jonas Gwangwa. Their first and only album, Jazz Epistle, Verse 1, released in 1959, brought them international acclaim. Following the 1960 Sharpeville Massacre and the heightened oppression of the apartheid government, including the prohibition of jazz music, the members of the band emigrated to Europe and North America. Two of the members, Ibrahim and Masekela, would go on to become jazz stars in their own right.

In June 2016, Ibrahim and Masekela reunited for two sold-out concerts at the Emperor’s Palace in Johannesburg, performing together in South Africa for the first time in over 50 years. The legends planned on touring the world together in tribute to The Jazz Epistles, but an illness forced Masekela to withdraw. The program will go forward with Abdullah Ibrahim & Ekaya (Ibrahim’s band) and special guests presenting new arrangements of The Jazz Epistles original compositions—including “Blues for Huey,” “Scullery Department,” and “Dollars Moods”—along with Ibrahim’s classic catalogue.

Abdullah Ibrahim, South Africa’s most distinguished pianist and jazz pioneer, was born in 1934 in Cape Town. He began piano lessons at the age of seven and made his professional debut at fifteen, playing and later recording with such local groups as the Tuxedo Slickers. He was in the forefront of playing bebop with a Cape Town flavor and in 1958 founded the Dollar Brand Trio. His groundbreaking septet, The Jazz Epistles, formed in 1959—with saxophonist Kippie Moeketsi, trumpeter Hugh Masekela, trombonist Jonas Gwanga, bassist Johnny Gertze, and drummer Makaya Ntshoko—and recorded the first jazz album by South African musicians, Jazz Epistle Verse 1. Ibrahim has been the subject of several documentaries and has also composed scores for film, including the award-winning soundtrack for Claire Denis’ Chocolat (1988), as well as for No Fear, No Die (1990) and Idrissa Ouedraogo’s Tilai (1990). Ibrahim was also featured in the 2002 documentary Amandla: A Revolution in Four-Part Harmony, which depicted the struggle against apartheid. He has toured the world extensively, appearing at major concert halls, clubs and festivals as both a solo artist and with other renowned artists, notably Max Roach, Carlos Ward, and Randy Weston.

Talk: Bringing Home the Opioid Epidemic
Eugene O’Neill’s Pulitzer Prize-winning, autobiographical family drama, Long Day’s Journey Into Night, is widely regarded as one of the most powerful American plays of the 20th century. The acclaimed Bristol Old Vic production—which premiered in 2016 as the centerpiece of its 250th anniversary season—is helmed by award-winning theater and film director Richard Eyre (Ghosts, BAM 2015 Winter/Spring Season; Notes on a Scandal, Iris), and features unforgettable performances by stage and screen, Tony- and Oscar-winning actor Jeremy Irons (The Borgias, Brideshead Revisited, Reversal of Fortune, The Real Thing) and renowned stage and screen actress Lesley Manville (Ghosts, Another Year, Secrets and Lies).

Unfolding on a summer’s day in 1912, Long Day’s Journey Into Night offers an emotionally devastating look at the Tyrone family, including retired actor and alcoholic father James, his morphine-addicted wife Mary, and troubled adult sons Edmund and Jamie. Haunted by the past—yet unable to face the truth of their dilemmas—the family replays feelings of resentment, anger, love, and despair. The cast includes Irons (James Tyrone), Manville (Mary Tyrone), Matthew Beard (Edmund Tyrone), Rory Keenan (James Tyrone, Jr.), and Jessica Regan (Cathleen). According to The Guardian, “Jeremy Irons and Lesley Manville shine with sexual passion and rage,” and the Mail on Sunday calls it “an intense, electrifying production.”

Long Day’s Journey Into Night will have a West End season at Wyndham’s Theatre (London) from January 27 to April 8. Following the BAM engagement, the production will travel to the Wallis Annenberg Center for the Performing Arts in Los Angeles from June 8 to July 1.

Sir Richard Eyre was director of the National Theatre from 1987—97. His most notable theater productions include Hamlet, with Jonathan Pryce at the Royal Court in 1980 and with Daniel Day-Lewis in 1989; Richard III with Ian McKellen; King Lear with Ian Holm; John Gabriel Borkman with Paul Scofield, Vanessa Redgrave and Eileen Atkins; and numerous new plays by David Hare, Tom Stoppard, Trevor Griffiths, Howard Brenton, Alan Bennett, and Nicholas Wright. He also directed the musical Mary Poppins in London and on Broadway. Eyre has received five Olivier Awards (including the Olivier Lifetime Achievement Award) and awards from the Directors’ Guild of Great Britain, the South Bank Show, the Evening Standard, and the Critics’ Circle. In 2013 he again won the Evening Standard Award for Best Director, for Ibsen’s Ghosts starring Lesley Manville at the Almeida Theatre. The production transferred to the West End and to BAM (2015 Winter/Spring Season).

Bristol Old Vic is the longest continuously running theater in the UK, and celebrated its 250th anniversary in 2016. Under Artistic Director Tom Morris, the historic playhouse aims to inspire audiences with its own original productions, both at home and on tour, while nurturing the next generation of artists, whether through its 350-strong Young Company, its many outreach and educations projects, or its trailblazing artist development program, Bristol Ferment. Its funding supports experiment and innovation, allowing access to programs for those who would otherwise not encounter or afford them, and keeping an extraordinary heritage alive and animated.

Love and Intrigue
US Premiere
By Friedrich Schiller
Maly Drama Theatre of St. Petersburg, Russia
Directed and adapted by Lev Dodin

Design by Alexander Borovsky
Lighting design by Damir Ismagilov
Music by Ludwig van Beethoven
Additional text by Jean-Jacques Rousseau and Otto von Bismark
“The moment my work day is done I run to my attic room, open a book by Schiller, and dream and suffer and delight in pains sweeter then all worldly pleasures.” –Fyodor Dostoevsky

Legendary director Lev Dodin (The Cherry Orchard, 2016 Winter/Spring; Three Sisters, 2012 Winter/Spring) and Russia’s acclaimed Maly Drama Theatre bring a classic work by German poet, playwright, and philosopher Friedrich Schiller to vital new life. A Romeo and Juliet for the bourgeois age, Love and Intrigue—first performed in 1787—tells the story of Ferdinand, the son of a high-ranking courtier who upends his father’s carefully laid plans and jeopardizes his fortuitous forthcoming marriage to one Lady Milford by falling in love with Louise Miller, the daughter of a middle-class musician. Courtly intrigue and class warfare ensue in this crisply paced, emotionally riveting, and ultimately timeless exploration of personal and political machinations. Danila Kozlovsky, Ksenia Rappoport, and Elizaveta Boyarskaya from 2016’s Cherry Orchard production appear as Ferdinand, Lady Milford, and Louise Miller.

The legendary Maly Drama Theatre began against all odds in war-ravaged Leningrad in 1944, performing in relative obscurity until the mid-70s when current Artistic Director Lev Dodin and other well-known artists joined the company. Maly Drama grew in breadth and ambition to become an internationally acclaimed, multi-award-winning company famous for challenging theatrical boundaries with Dodin’s thrillingly imaginative productions and accomplished ensemble of actors. Maly Drama Theatre made its BAM debut with Gaudeamus: The Construction Battalion as part of the 1994 Next Wave Festival. It has since appeared with Uncle Vanya in 2010, Three Sisters in 2012, and The Cherry Orchard in 2016.

Lev Dodin was born in Siberia in 1944. He studied theater, music, and cinema at Leningrad Institute for Theatre, graduating in 1966. Between 1966 and 1982 he served as a guest director of various Russian and European theater companies, including Leningrad Young Viewers’ Theatre, Gorky Theater, MKhAT, Finnish National Theatre, Salzburg Festival, Florence Musical May festival, and Milan’s La Scala. He began working with Maly Drama Theatre in 1975 and has been artistic director since 1983, garnering several international laurels. He is a professor at the St. Petersburg Academy of Theatrical Arts and chair of the directing department.
