

BAM announces an extension of Simon Stone's Medea—a contemporary rewrite of Euripides' tragedy—now running until Sunday, March 8.

Jan 22, 2020/Brooklyn, NY—Director/writer Simon Stone's (Yerma) Medea will extend its run to March 8th, due to popular demand. Fourteen additional performances have been added to the schedule, which began previews on January 12th and opens on January 30th. The production is staged at the Harvey Theater at BAM Strong (651 Fulton St, Brooklyn).

Medea is produced by BAM, Internationaal Theater Amsterdam, and David Lan (former artistic director of London's Young Vic). Its cast includes Rose Byrne, Bobby Cannavale, and Dylan Baker.

Originally staged by Internationaal Theater Amsterdam (formerly Toneelgroep Amsterdam) in 2014, Medea was presented at London's Barbican in 2019, where The Guardian called it “funny, clever and harrowing in equal measure” (★★★★★).

Contact: Sandy Sawotka, ssawotka@BAM.org, or 718.636.4190