October 21, 2016/Brooklyn, NY— Israeli-born, NYC-based choreographer Zvi Gotheiner and his contemporary dance company ZviDance make their BAM debut in On The Road, a work inspired by Jack Kerouac's iconic novel. The piece contemplates the cultural upheaval of the 1960s and the Beat generation's clarion call of social rebellion. Using kaleidoscopic video footage from the company's own cross-country road trip—which traced the path of Sal Paradise, Kerouac's narrator and alter ego—Gotheiner and his collaborators, including composer Jukka Rintamäki and video artist Josh Higgason, present a multimedia movement work that explores concepts of restlessness, freedom, and exploration.

ZviDance, based in New York, brings its audiences a passionate vision of community in a modern age. A collaborative alliance among artists, the company's stirring work celebrates diversity by melding movement genres into a distinct dance vocabulary. It incorporates the ensemble and designers into the initial research phase, emphasizing an interdisciplinary method of creation. The company performs frequently at the Joyce Theater, New York Live Arts, and Lincoln Center Out-of-Doors. It has toured across North America to festivals such as Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival and American Dance Festival, and abroad to Germany, Poland, Russia, Israel, Colombia, Brazil, Ecuador, and Japan.

Zvi Gotheiner was born and raised on a kibbutz in northern Israel. He began his artistic career as a violinist with the Young Kibbutzim Orchestra, where he attained the rank of soloist and concertmaster at age 15. He began dancing at 17, and soon after, formed his first performance group. Gotheiner arrived in New York in 1978 on a dance scholarship from the America-Israel Cultural Foundation and danced with Joyce Trisler Dance Company and Feld Ballets/NY, and toured with Batsheva Dance Company. After directing Tamar Ramle and the Jerusalem Tamar Dance Companies in Israel and the Israeli Chamber Dance Company in New York, he founded ZviDance in 1989.
